The dis-tinest part of the community preleaded to believe that such was the agreement with those who bound their money to the government; but it was only reactis and repudistors who publicly advocated to that the back track. Seymour, in both of his speeches, made just before his somination, den uncod it. Brick Pomercy and Singleton sconted it, as a mean perversion of truth; they preferred sucked and undisquismed repudiation. And Frank Blair; recking as he is, did not date or would not stoop to affirm so gross a bischool.
